F) AMERICAN HISTORY ON THE WEB

American research universities have pioneered the use of the World Wide Web for academic study. Accordingly, there are an enormous number of sites relating to U.S. history (although recent history is less well-served than some areas, and much of what you will find caters primarily to baby-boomer nostalgia). For a general list of U.S. websites, see <http://www.history.ox.ac.uk/links/northamerican.htm>. For another good general list, see the following Lancaster University history department site: <http://www.lancs.ac.uk/users/history/histwebsite/homepage.htm>.
