

Trinity Term
2010

UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD
FACULTY OF HISTORY
www.history.ox.ac.uk

---

The Long Nineteenth Century Seminar

---

‘Being Abroad in the Long Nineteenth Century: Exiles, Migrants, Tourists, Explorers’

Mondays at 2.15pm, in the Seminar Room, Oriel College

Week 1 (Mon 26 April):

David Hopkin (Hertford College, Oxford)

A Victorian Anglican considers race and religion: the Reverend Wentworth Webster (1828–1907) and the Basque question

Week 2 (Mon 03 May)

Fabrice Bensimon (Université Paris IV – Sorbonne)

British migrant workers in France, 1815-1850

Week 3 (Mon 10 May)

Alex Drace-Francis (University of Liverpool)

‘Like a member of a free nation, he spoke without shame’: The reception of Western travellers in modern Romanian culture

Week 4 (Mon 17 May)

Reading Week:

Nancy L. Green, ‘The comparative gaze: travellers in France before the era of mass tourism’, French Historical Studies, (2002), 25, 3, 423-440.

Wendy Bracewell, ‘The limits of East European travel writing’ in W. Bracewell and A. Drace-Francis (eds.) Under Eastern eyes: a comparative introduction to East European travel writing on Europe (2008)

Week 5 (Mon 24 May)

Joseph de Sapio (St Hilda’s College, Oxford)

Brother Jonathan in John Bull’s House: American visitors to Britain, 1865–1900

Week 6 (Mon 31 May)

Anna Geurts (University College, Oxford)

Space, time and materiality in the personal lives of early-nineteenth-century tourists

Week 7 (Mon 07 Jun)

Chloe Jeffries (Merton College, Oxford)

Getting lost in nineteenth-century France: truth, trust and travel maps

Week 8 (Mon 14 Jun)

Abigail Green (Brasenose College, Oxford)

Making connections: Montefiore’s travels in the Jewish world

Convenors: Christina de Bellaigue (Exeter) and David Hopkin (Hertford)